Nudes, Pressure and Threats Online: What to Do

What to do if someone pressures you for nudes, shares an image of you, or threatens you online, and how to help a friend. For all students.

Before You Read This guide talks about nude images, pressure, threats and blackmail online.

This guide is about nude photos and videos: being pressured to send them, having them shared, and people threatening to share things about you. It doesn't show or describe any images. Some of it might feel close to home. That's OK.

- Read it in bits, take a break, or stop whenever you need to.
- You can talk to any adult you trust at school, including the safeguarding team, a counsellor or the school nurse.
- Childline is free and confidential. You can call 0800 1111 any time, day or night. You can also use 1-2-1 chat at childline.org.uk, but you may have to wait for a counsellor, so calling is usually quickest.

If you or someone else is in danger right now, call 999.

This Guide Is for Everyone

This guide explains what to do if:

- someone is pressuring you to send a nude or sexual photo or video;
- a nude of you has been shared without your permission, or someone has made a fake one;
- someone is threatening to share a photo, video or old post of you unless you pay them or do what they say;
- you've been sent a nude of someone else, or a friend is going through any of this.

It can happen to anyone. If it's happening to you, it is not your fault, and you are not in trouble for asking for help.

Need Help Now?

- Tell an adult you trust: a teacher, your tutor, a house parent or anyone at school you feel safe with.
- If someone has threatened you or someone else, tell an adult straight away.
- If someone is threatening you or asking for money, don't pay and don't send anything. Tell an adult now.
- If someone is in danger right now, call 999.
- Childline: 0800 1111, free, any time.

What Do the Words Mean?

Nude or semi-nude

A photo or video of someone naked, partly naked or in their underwear in a sexual way. It includes fake or AI-made ones.

Sharing without consent

Sending or showing someone's nude to other people when they didn't agree. It's never OK.

Blackmail

When someone threatens to do something bad, like share a photo or post, unless you give them money or do what they want.

Sextortion

Blackmail using nude or sexual images, usually to get money. It is often done by criminals pretending to be young people.

Trusted adult

An adult you feel safe with: a teacher, tutor, house parent, counsellor or family member.

You're Not in Trouble for Asking for Help

What You Need to Know

- The law says nude images of anyone under 18 shouldn't be made, kept or shared, even of yourself. That law is there to protect young people, not to get them into trouble.
- If a nude of you has been shared, you will not be in trouble for asking for help, at school or with the police. If someone is threatening you, it's not your fault, and asking for help is the right thing to do.

- Adults at school won't ask you to show them your photos, and won't copy or share them. They're there to help you, not to judge you.
- Photos can often be taken down. The sooner you tell someone, the more can be done.

If Someone Pressures You to Send a Nude

- You can always say no, even to someone you like or are going out with. Someone who cares about you won't keep asking.
- Pressure can look like asking again and again, sulking, saying "everyone does it", sending one first, or offering money or gifts.
- If someone you've only met online moves quickly to sexual chat, or asks you to move to a private app, be careful: they may not be who they say they are.
- Tell a trusted adult if anyone keeps asking, especially if they're older or an adult. That's not your fault either.

If a Nude of You Has Been Shared

What to Do

- Tell a trusted adult as soon as you can. You're not in trouble, and you don't have to sort it out alone.
- Don't reply to people who are sharing it or making comments, and don't try to get it back yourself.
- Keep messages. Don't delete them. You don't need to save or screenshot anything: an adult can help. If you need to block someone now to feel safe, do it, and tell an adult anyway.
- Report Remove can help get it taken down from the internet. An adult can help you use it (see Getting Images Taken Down, below).
- Be kind to yourself. The person who shared it did something wrong, not you.

You Don't Have to Be a Detective

- You don't have to find out who has it, ask people to delete it, or keep checking what people are saying.

- Sorting it out is the adults' job.

If Someone Is Threatening You

Get Help Now

- This could be someone threatening to share a nude, a photo, a video or an old post of you unless you pay, send more or do something for them.
- Don't pay, and don't send anything more. Paying doesn't make it stop: they usually just ask for more.
- Stop replying. Block them if you need to, and keep the messages. You don't need to screenshot anything.
- Tell a trusted adult now, even late at night. You won't be in trouble.
- People who do this are often criminals who do it to lots of young people. It is not your fault, and you are not alone.
- If you feel like hurting yourself, tell an adult straight away, or call Childline on 0800 1111. If you are in danger, call 999.

If You're Sent a Nude of Someone Else

- Don't forward it, show anyone, or screenshot it. Each time it's shared, the person in it is hurt again.
- Tell a trusted adult. They'll tell you what to do next, including whether to delete it. You're not in trouble for being sent something you didn't ask for.
- If it's in a group chat, you don't have to say anything in the chat. Telling an adult is enough.

RESPOND: If It's Happening to a Friend

If this is happening to a friend, what you do makes a big difference. Here is what you can do.

You Lead (R, E, S)

Recognise

Notice the signs.

- Is a photo going round, or are people making comments about someone?
- Has a friend gone quiet, seem scared of their phone, or suddenly need money?
- You don't need to be sure to do something

Engage

Talk and listen.

- Talk to your friend privately: "Are you OK? It's not your fault."
- If it is safe to do so, the best ways to help are to tell an adult, change the subject or get your friend away from the group, and check in with them later

Support

Be there.

- "I'm on your side. Let's tell someone together."

The Bridge: Pause (P)

Pause

Stop and think.

- Don't look at, share, forward or comment on the image
- Don't try to find out who shared it, or collect evidence
- Don't promise to keep it a secret: your friend needs an adult's help

Adults Lead (O, N, D)

Offer

Show them there's help.

- Tell your friend a trusted adult can help, and offer to go with them

Notify

Tell a trusted adult.

- If someone is being threatened or asked for money, tell an adult straight away
- That isn't snitching. It's how people get help

Document

Adults write it down.

- The adult will make a record. You just need to tell them what you know

What Happens When You Tell

What Happens When You Tell

- It starts with someone you trust. Behind them is a team whose job is to make sure you get the right help.
 - The adult will listen and take what you say seriously.
 - Adults at school won't ask you to show them your photos, and won't copy or share them. They'll make a plan with the school's safeguarding team to keep you safe and to help get images taken down.
 - If an adult is worried about your safety, they will share the concern with the school's safeguarding team. They will explain what happens next and involve you as much as possible in decisions about keeping you safe. They won't promise to keep it secret.
 - Adults who work with young people are allowed to share information that helps keep children safe without asking your permission. They only share what is needed, and only with the people who need to know. They will tell you what they are sharing and why, unless that would put someone in danger, and they will listen to what you think.
 - You will be kept informed and asked what you need.
- Your parents or carers will usually be told, and the adults will talk with you about how. If home doesn't feel safe, tell the adult: they will think carefully about how, and whether, your family is told.
 - Sometimes the police help too, especially if someone is threatening you. That's to protect you.

Getting Images Taken Down

- Report Remove (childline.org.uk) can help get a nude of you taken off the internet if you're under 18. Childline can support you while you do it.
- Take It Down (takeitdown.ncmec.org) can stop a nude of you being posted on some apps, even before anyone shares it. The photo never leaves your phone. A trusted adult can help you use it.
- CEOP (ceop.police.uk) is where you can report someone who is asking you for sexual things or threatening you online. If you're in danger, call 999.
- You can also report on the app itself. A trusted adult can help you with any of these.

If You've Been Part of It

Maybe you forwarded a photo, laughed at it, or asked someone for one. You can stop now.

- Don't share it any further, and talk to an adult you trust. It's better to own up than to wait.
- Never make fake nudes of anyone, even as a joke: it causes real harm.
- Childline (0800 1111) is there for you too.

Myths and Facts

Myth	Fact
"If I tell, I'll get in trouble"	You won't be in trouble for asking for help if a nude of you has been shared. If someone is threatening you, telling is the right thing to do.
"If I pay, they'll leave me alone"	They usually ask for more. Don't pay: tell an adult.
"Once it's out there, nothing can be done"	Images can often be taken down, especially if you tell someone quickly.
"It's their fault for sending it"	The person who shares someone's photo without permission is the one doing wrong.

"It's fake, so it doesn't matter"

Fake nudes cause real harm. Tell an adult.

If You Board

- You can always contact your house parents, the DSL or a member of the boarding management team, at any time, day or night.
- If something happens at night, tell a house parent straight away, even late. You don't have to wait until morning.
- Your boarding school has an independent person you can talk to who isn't a member of staff.
- You can always contact your family privately.

Who Can Help

At School

- Any adult you trust: your tutor, a teacher, a coach, a house parent if you board, or a school counsellor
- The Designated Safeguarding Lead (DSL) and deputy DSLs: the staff whose job is to keep students safe. Their names are usually on the school website, in the safeguarding policy and on posters around school.
- The school nurse or health centre, and the school counsellor

Outside School

- Childline (for anyone under 19): 0800 1111, free and confidential; call any time, day or night, or use 1-2-1 chat at childline.org.uk (you may have to wait for a chat counsellor, so calling is usually quickest). If you're under 18, start here.
- Shout: text SHOUT to 85258, free, confidential, 24/7
- Emergency: call 999
